

DEADLINE

Six weeks before your study period ends.

WHAT IS AN APPEAL?

An appeal is the process by which you have the opportunity to request a reconsideration of your assessed award. If you have had an exceptional circumstance that meets one or more of the criteria listed below and you have not received the maximum amount of funding for the application study period, you may submit an appeal request. Once evaluated, the appeal request may result in a change to your StudentAid BC award.

APPEAL CRITERIA

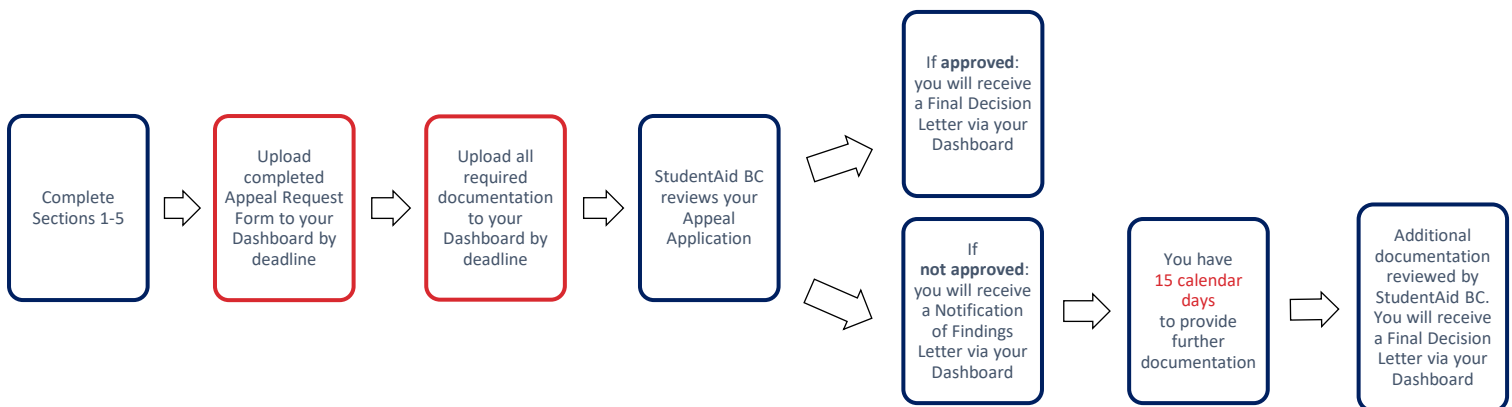

If you were denied B.C. student loan funding due to a previous bankruptcy that included B.C. student loans, you may appeal the denial if you can demonstrate that:

- There were exceptional circumstances leading to your bankruptcy, such as medical reasons or marital breakdown.
- You filed for bankruptcy during your study or non-repayment period and you are continuing in the same program of study in which you were enrolled in the date of bankruptcy or bankruptcy related event.
- If student loans were involved in the bankruptcy, Canada Student Financial Assistance Program has provided clearance for your receipt of new loans.
- If student loans have been repaid or discharged, you are a good credit risk. Credit risk is determined by the reason for bankruptcy, your efforts to rehabilitate your credit and that your studies warrant further investment.
- If student loans were not involved in your bankruptcy, the debts have been discharged or that a trustee has stated they will not place any claim on your student loan.

Note: If your Canada student loan is in default or was involved in your bankruptcy, you must contact Canada Student Financial Assistance Program to receive clearance for further funding. For more information on your federal loans, please contact the National Student Loans Service Centre at: 1-888-815-4514 and ask to be transferred to the Case Review Unit of the Canada Student Financial Assistance Program.
